History

The old-timers remember the way it used to be: dirt roads, no electricity, a small and short-lived City created by the construction of a dam. Now they see a thriving City in an urban setting with an excellent quality of life.

Coon Rapids traces its founding as a separate government entity back to July 30, 1857 when Anoka Township was organized. The City retains these same boundaries with the exclusion of the City of Anoka which was incorporated as a separate city.

When the Federal Government surveyed the area in 1847, it found a well traveled road running through Anoka County. The road was laid out in 1835 for military use and may be the oldest road in this part of the country. In 1843, trade was established from St. Paul to Pembina in the Red River Valley by Norman W. Kittson and the road then became part of the famous Red River Ox Cart Trail. The trail closely followed the present East River Road/Coon Rapids Boulevard alignment.

Agriculture was the first industry in the Coon Creek area, with farms ranging in size from 90 to 600 acres. In 1881, Dr. D. C. Dunham organized the first brick yard which was located near the old City Hall site and was known as the Anoka Pressed Brick and Terra Cotta Company. It represented the first non-agricultural industry in Coon Rapids. A legacy left by that brick industry is still visible today and is known as the "Clay Hole".

In the summer of 1898, the Great Northern Development Company proposed to build a dam below the Coon Creek Rapids with a power generating plant on the east side of the river. The actual construction did not start until 1912. Within one year, a small city had sprung up on the shores of the Mississippi River. Streets were laid out and roughly graded. The City's population grew to over one thousand with laborers and engineers working on the dam. The dam was built by the Mississippi Power Company and was operating by 1914. Northern States Power Company ran the dam until 1969. It was acquired by the Hennepin County Park Board and serves as Coon Rapids Dam Regional Park today.

With the coming of the dam, Anoka Township took on a new name - Coon Creek Rapids which over the years was shortened to Coon Rapids. In July 1948, an election was held in an attempt to incorporate the Township of Anoka as a village. The idea was initially defeated but eventually passed successfully in October of 1952. In keeping with the progressive nature of the community, the voters went to the polls in November of 1957 and change the form of village government to the Council/Manager plan. Two years later, in June of 1959, the Village of Coon Rapids became the City of Coon Rapids.

Since 1959, the population has grown from 14,000 to over 63,000, making Coon Rapids the second largest suburb in the metropolitan area. The roots of this City wind their way deeply into the fertile soil comprised of land, citizen interest, sound government, first-rate accessibility and a vision for the future.

City Information

GENERAL INFORMATION CONCERNING THE CITY

The City of Coon Rapids is a northern suburb of the Minneapolis/Saint Paul metropolitan area, situated in southwestern Anoka County. The City's area is approximately 23 square miles (14,400 acres).

Governmental Organizations and Services

Coon Rapids was incorporated as a village in 1952 and became a Home Rule City in 1959. The City operates under a Council/Manager form of government. Effective January 1, 1994, membership of the City Council increased from five to seven members, consisting of the Mayor, five members elected by ward and one member elected at large.

City functions are divided into eight departments including management, legal, city clerk, finance, community development, police, fire and public works. In 1998 there were 219 full-time and 23 part-time employees (excluding seasonal employees) on the City payroll. Citizen involvement includes participation in 14 commissions and boards including planning, zoning, economic development, safety, human rights, parks and recreation, arts, capital improvement, ice arena, charter, historical, cable communications, civil service and housing and community development.

The City provides protective services through its Police Department, comprised of 71 full-time employees and 60 police volunteers, and its Fire Department, which has 32 full-time members and 20 part-time volunteers.

Municipal Services

The City of Coon Rapids City Center, completed in 1996, houses all City administrative offices, including police and fire administration, and provides community space for seniors and other community groups. The City also maintains the Riverwind Recreation Complex (which includes an Olympic size swimming pool), an ice arena and a 36-hole golf course. Since 1993 the City has hosted an USGA Senior Professional golf tour event annually at its municipal golf course.

The City provides municipal water and sewer services to all of the developed areas of the City. Water is supplied by wells and the City has a storage capacity of 12 million gallons. The sewer lateral system is operated and maintained by the City. Interceptor sewer lines and wastewater treatment plants in the seven-county metropolitan area are under the jurisdiction of the Office of Environmental Services (OES) of the Metropolitan Council. OES finances its operations through user charges based on volume.

Coon Rapids is within Anoka-Hennepin Independent School District 11, the second largest school district in the State, which had a 1998/99 enrollment of 41,088 students. Independent School District 11 has eight elementary schools, two junior high schools and one senior high school located within the City of Coon Rapids. building bond referendum for construction of a new middle school, two new elementary schools, a kindergarten center, classroom additions and various technology upgrades. The new District facilities to be constructed pursuant to the referendum will not be located within the City of Coon Rapids.

Two private (kindergarten through grade 12) schools are located in the City of Coon Rapids. Total enrollment for 1998/99 is approximately 855 students.

As of July 1, 1995, the Anoka-Hennepin Technical College became part of a State College

GROUND BROKEN FOR RIVERDALE VILLAGE

A Regional Shopping Center finally seems to be a reality now that the ground has been broken for the new Riverdale Village complex located on 120 acres North of Main Street, East of Round Lake Boulevard and South of Highway 10. After saving the land for more than twenty years for a regional shopping center and failed attempts in the late '80's to develop an enclosed mall, the area is now being developed by Developers Diversified Realty Corporation (DDRC) into Riverdale Village. Plans are to have 250,000 sq. ft. of the 950,000 sq. ft., $76 million, shopping center complex completed by year end, with the majority of the center to be built in 2000.

The ground breaking ceremonies took place on Tuesday, May 4th at the site. DDRC Senior Director of Development Stan Hoffman, Mayor Lonni McCauley and Councilmembers Denise Klint, Jerry Newton, Jerry Wright and Jerry Nelson, City Manager Jerry Splinter and City Engineer Steve Gatlin were among the dignitaries invited to ceremoniously break ground.

The openair retail complex will have more than 40 stores, including specialty shops, entertainment venues, restaurants and anchor department stores. The first building, an 86,000 square foot Kohl's department store, is under construction already and scheduled to open this fall. Also planned for construction this year is a 45,000 sq. ft. JoAnn Etc. shop and 34,000 sq. ft. Linen 'N Things. Barnes & Noble has approved the location and DDRC is working with Gap and Limited. Other announcements of store tenants is expected very shortly.

Mayor Lonni McCauley stated Riverdale Village was a tribute to the vision of past City Councils in preserving the land for a regional shopping center, to City Staff, Planning Commission and the City Council for nurturing this "unique" project. The North Metro area will have an entertainment and shopping center complex that will showcase the City of Coon Rapids.

Historical Mural

COON RAPIDS HISTORICAL MURAL INTRODUCTION

Coon Rapids Historical Mural was painted by Helen Potter, employed as a community artist by the City of Coon Rapids during 1977-78. The early photographs used on this historic mural were reproduced by DeFoe Studios.

Actual production of the mural was done by EIM Graphics, Incorporated, of Burnsville, Minnesota by use of a Gisen Scanamural method. A small positive of the actual artwork is placed in a machine which then paints the image from the positive to a fabric (for this mural, a canvas), which is placed on a large drum. The paint is selected and sprayed on the drum by use of a computer.

Information for the mural was obtained from the Anoka County Historical Society, the Minnesota State Historical Society, and the Anoka, Blaine, and Coon Rapids newspapers.

A lasting debt of gratitude for additional first-hand information is also owed to Mary Hauwiller, Charley Barney, and Mary Dwyer, as well as to the members of the Coon Rapids Historical Commission of 1977-78 for their research-gathering and fact-finding efforts. They were: Roland Anderson, Owen Hyland (Chair), Nancy Lee, George and Alice Otis, Adelaide Robinson, David Rolph, James Whitehead, and Lorayne Zawistowski. Other miscellaneous memorabilia were received from numerous past and present citizens of Coon Rapids.

The starting date of the mural is 1857. It was in July of that year that the area generally known today as the boundary of Coon Rapids was organized as Anoka Township. A few minor alterations of the boundary have been made since that time, most notably the extraction of the area for the City of Anoka. Anoka Township became known as the Village of Coon Rapids in October of 1952 and the City of Coon Rapids in June of 1959.

The mural was mounted and framed by Jerry Hollom and Jim Whitehead. Funds for the mural came from a 50 percent matching grant from the Minnesota State Historical Society, while the remaining share came from the City of Coon Rapids by way of supplies and of time spent by the artist Helen Potter and the members of the Coon Rapids Historical Commission. Coordinating the efforts of everyone in this project as the Historical Commission liaison person between the City and various organizations and commissions were Gaylord Aldinger and his staff. The narrator for the audio part of the mural is Commission member David Rolph.

Finance & Budgeting

The City's Budget

The City Council has final authority for adopting the Annual Budget and establishing the property tax levy. The Budget is a reflection of the City's plan, policies, procedures and objectives regarding the programs and services provided by the City.

Operating a City the size of Coon Rapids is a big business that demands substantial resources to provide the services that the citizens require. The Council has a commitment to maintain the highest possible level of service without the need to increase the property tax rate.

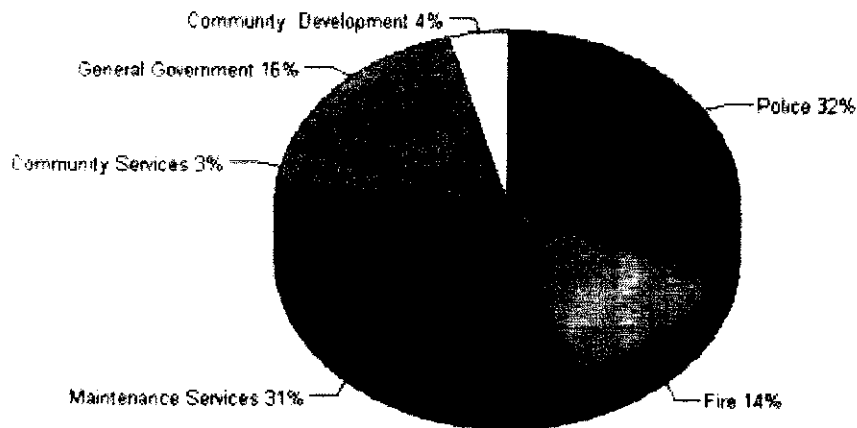

Each real estate tax dollar collected in the City is apportioned to several government units as shown at the left. The City of Coon Rapids receives 20% of each dollar you pay in property taxes on a $100,000 home.

The real estate tax is one of the chief sources of revenue for the City. In addition to the real estate tax, the City also receives revenue from the State of Minnesota in the form of Local Government Aid and homestead credits. Additional revenues are generated by licenses; permit and service fees; interest earnings; court fines, etc.

The total City-wide expenditure budget for 1999 is $38,123,039 with $16,436,086 budgeted for the General Fund. The General Fund budget is apportioned to departments shown on the 1999 Expenditure chart below.

City services are provided by a full-time staff of 225 employees augmented by many part-time and seasonal employees.
